

UNIT 3 Assessment: Interpersonal Writing1D Replying to your friend – Learning Targets

- ✓ I can write about my family members.
- ✓ I can write about my classes and which period I have them.
- ✓ I can use the conjunction でも to make more interesting compound sentences.
- ✓ I can write about time and use time particles appropriately when I do.
- ✓ I know how to write about what “tool” is used for different activities and chores.
- ✓ I can write a little about the weather.

Scenario

Your friend Jun has written you, asking about your family and school life. Unfortunately, you left the letter at home, but you need to write your answer now. Do the best you can to remember his questions. Write two paragraphs about your family and classmates. Include information about their ages, classes, grades, clubs, etc. Write your letter as fully and completely as you can. Remember that more complex sentences are more interesting than a series of simple statements.
