

UNIT 3 Assessment: Presentational Writing

Learning Targets

- ✓ I can talk about my school, classes, schedule, grades and what happens in a typical Japanese school day
- ✓ I can ask and give basic information about the weather
- ✓ I can make basic comparisons using “but”
- ✓ I can talk about things that do and do not exist or that I and others have or don't have
- ✓ I can talk about things in the present, past, and future

Scenario

You are going to Japan with your Japanese teacher and several classmates this summer. Your host school in Japan has asked you to make a presentation, in Japanese, about your school and school life in the U.S. Record a presentation you can use to introduce your school, classes, after-school activities, friends, etc. You will want to prepare the following ahead of time:

- ◆ Photos of some of your classes and the common areas of school, such as the cafeteria, library, gym, computer lab, front office, etc.
- ◆ A chart with your class schedule, including classes and times

Photos of some of the after-school sports and other activities available at your school
